Denman Community Land Trust water application draws concerns

At a May committee meeting, the land trust reported seeking information for its application and raised concerns about the water-review process.

REPORT — FACTS AND CITATIONS ONLY

THE DENMAN FIRESTARTER

The Denman Community Land Trust Association reported to the Local Trust Committee on May 1 that it was seeking information for its application, and said the Ministry of Transportation and Infrastructure had stated it would accept a potable water waiver given by the committee.¹

The committee minutes say a representative of the association expressed concern that harmonizing provincial water licensing with the Water Assessment Terms of Reference would not help and could delay the process.¹

Staff said the referral process was new and that the referral was likely to be technical; trustees supported bringing it to the committee to consider whether harmonization was possible.¹

The minutes record that the association asked about amending its Development Variance Permit application and whether the information provided so far was suitable to expedite it. A planner suggested discussing those issues after the meeting.¹
