Farm to Family stops sales at clinic storage shed

The Denman meal service says its trial retail location is not working well and is exploring other downtown options.

REPORT — FACTS AND CITATIONS ONLY

THE DENMAN FIRESTARTER

Farm to Family Meals has stopped using the Medical Clinic storage facility as a sales location and is exploring other options downtown, according to a notice in this week’s newsletter.¹

The notice asks customers not to look for the service at the clinic shed and says purchases can be arranged by email or phone.¹

Farm to Family apologized to clinic and health-centre staff and customers for confusion about the location, and said it would share news of a new location once arrangements were sorted out.¹

Letters disagree over Denman Green and affordable housing

Comments recorded at a January Local Trust Committee meeting show differing views on the proposed housing projects and zoning.

REPORT — FACTS AND CITATIONS ONLY

THE DENMAN FIRESTARTER

Residents expressed contrasting views on Denman’s proposed affordable-housing projects at the January 21 Local Trust Committee meeting, according to the adopted minutes.¹

On the Denman Community Land Trust Association’s Seniors Affordable Housing project, comments included support for site-specific zoning and objections to including it in a proposed R4 zone; speakers also urged that the project not be delayed.¹

Comments on Denman Housing Association’s Denman Green raised concerns about water supply, consultation, location, infrastructure and fire risk. The minutes also record support for considering the application and say a referral to the Advisory Planning Commission would add community input.¹

The minutes record these as comments from members of the public, not as findings about the projects.¹
