Denman letters address pandemic recovery and Canada-U.S. relations

Two letters in the June 18 Grapevine take different subjects, with one addressing recovery from COVID-19 and another criticizing U.S. trade policy toward Canada.

REPORT — FACTS AND CITATIONS ONLY

THE DENMAN FIRESTARTER

The June 18 issue of The Islands Grapevine carries an open letter about Canada-U.S. relations and a letter to Prime Minister Justin Trudeau concerning COVID-19, the climate crisis and recovery.¹

The open letter, signed by Veronica Timmons, reproduces remarks attributed to Florida Circuit Court Judge Robert Meadows and apologizes to Canadians for what the letter calls an attack on Canada.¹

A separate letter, signed by Sara French, says the federal government requested public input on shaping a recovery from COVID-19, with submissions open until June 19.¹

The letters address different arguments; the issue does not present them as a direct exchange.¹

YANA outlines medical-travel support for Denman families

A Grapevine notice describes travel funding and accommodation support for Denman families seeking medical care away from home.

REPORT — FACTS AND CITATIONS ONLY

THE DENMAN FIRESTARTER

A notice in the June 18 issue of The Islands Grapevine says YANA offers travel funding and accommodation to Denman and Hornby families who need to travel for medical treatment.¹

The notice says support is available for families with a child under 19 or a pregnant mother whose primary residence is within the Comox Valley.¹

It also describes the Denman Hornby Connector Program for expecting mothers who need temporary accommodation in the Comox Valley near maternity care and the hospital.¹
