Denman school seeks lunch provider for community program

The community school is seeking a paid lunch provider for students and staff, with applications due Sept. 11.

REPORT — FACTS AND CITATIONS ONLY

THE DENMAN FIRESTARTER

Denman Island Community Education Society is seeking a lunch provider for the Denman Community School, offering a one-year contract to prepare lunches for up to 60 students and staff.¹

The notice says lunches will be mostly plant-based, with a mix of assemble-and-serve and cooked-from-scratch options. The provider must have experience in a similar setting, FoodSafe certification and a criminal record check.¹

The position pays $25 an hour to start, for five hours a day, three days a week. Applications addressed to Gracie MacDonald were due by the end of Sept. 11.¹

The society is also seeking after-school facilitators and garden helpers, according to the notice.¹

THE ISLAND

Denman Seed Fest scheduled for Sept. 26

The event at the ORCA beside the community hall is set to feature seed-cleaning equipment and local crop demonstrations.

REPORT — FACTS AND CITATIONS ONLY

THE DENMAN FIRESTARTER

Denman Island Seed Fest is scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 26, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the ORCA beside the community hall.¹

The event notice says Farm Folk / City Folk will bring seed-separating and seed-cleaning equipment for demonstration and community use. The Denman Island Growers’ and Producers’ Alliance plans to bring threshing and winnowing equipment.¹

Visitors can bring seeds to try the equipment, and freshly harvested Denman grain and pulse crops are planned for demonstration. North Island College is sponsoring the event and plans to share information about its applied research project on small-scale grain and pulse production on Denman.¹

The notice says free winter wheat and fava seeds will be available for planting this fall.¹
